Ashley Turner is a Partner in our firm's Phoenix office. Ashley began her legal career as an office assistant with a community association law firm while studying as an undergraduate at Arizona State University. After graduating summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Science degree in Justice Studies in 2012, she moved to Chicago, Illinois, to attend law school. She earned her law degree cum laude from Chicago-Kent College of Law in 2015. Following her graduation, Ashley re-joined her previous firm as an attorney, focusing on representing homeowners associations and condominium associations. She has extensive experience in community association law and litigation, providing a comprehensive range of legal services to these associations.

In her free time, Ashley enjoys hiking the many Arizona trails with her husband and her dog, taking road trips, training her Australian cattle dog, and reading.
